MISCELLANEOUS.

BE NOT DECEIVED!
THE TIME IS COMING when hundreds will regret, as many now do, that they DID NOT insure with the Great Mutual Life Insurance Company.
OF NEW YORK,
The Pioneer Life Company of this Country, - - - Established in 1843.
Assets nearly $26,000,000 all Cash.
SECURITY is the paramount consideration in Life Insurance.
This Company being purely mutual, it has NO stockholders, (like some others,) who receive large dividends and are thus consuming the earnings, which should go to the assured.
Its History of twenty-five years is best told by the twenty-five hundred families of deceased members who have received nearly ten millions of dollars in return for the premiums paid in annual sums, often in amount insignificant, but in beneficial results incalculable in value.
It is the Cheapest Company to insure with, and exceeds all others on the following points:
In Security Offered; In Age; Amount Insured; Assets; In Dividends; Number of Policy Holders; Low Rate of Expenses and Claims, &c.
The effect of all these favorable conditions has been that in the past twenty-three years the company has paid to its Policy-Holders in dividends the large sum of $10,176,338 in Cash, {or equivalent additions to their Policies of about $22,000,000
These Dividends were larger, both in amount and in proportion to premiums paid, than those ever declared by any other Life Insurance Company.
The phrase Annual Dividends in this Company means dividends made annually FROM THE START, on the FIRST and every subsequent premium; and not at the expiration of three, four or five years and only then annually. It also means that the dividends are available immediately to increase the insurance, or as CASH in reduction of the premium of the current year; and NOT merely to cancel notes and accrued interest on premiums three, four, or five years old. These dividends being added to the sum insured give such results as are shown in the following examples, by which it will be seen the Policies referred to have nearly doubled in amount, the additions being from 30 to 50 per cent. more than the premiums paid thereon. The following are cases of Policies now in force at this Agency:

EXAMPLE.

No. of Policy.	Amount insured.	Premiums paid.	Amount of Dividends.	Am't of Policy and Dividends.	Am't of dividends over payments.
518	$3,500	$2,452.45	$2,917.57	$6,447.57	$465.12
633	500	291 60	403.54	903 54	111.94
4,478	1,000	562 00	741.61	1,741.61	179.61
7,767	8,000	3,816.89	5,483.23	13,483.23	1,666.34
7,862	5,000	2,771.00	3,510.12	8,510.12	739.12
10 793	3,000	1,142.40	1,726.90	4,726 90	584.50
12,410	1,500	442.55	731.65	2,231.65	289.10

We invite our friends to call and see the Policies for themselves.
The Policies of this Company are Non Forfeiting in the true sense of the term and always have a CASH VALUE, on surrender, while with some other Companies it is not so.
Endowment Policies payable at any given age, or with Five or Ten Year payments issued on more favorable terms than by any other Company.
All Policies Non-Forfeiting, in the true sense of the term.
The Interest alone, so far received by this Company the past years on its invested funds, considerably exceeds the amount of Claims by Death,—the amount paid for claims by Death being $914,537; the interest on investments in 1867 being $1,215,761, showing an excess of $400,000. No other Company can show such results.
Young Men especially are requested to examine the system and workings of this Great Company, which are worthy the attention of all who propose to insure; and none should insure without first examining the advantages afforded over all the various plans presented by the small Companies now in the field, some of whose features will not bear a very close scrutiny.
Many of the Policy holders of this Company have recently largely increased their insurance, for the reason they find it the Best Investment they now have.
We respectfully invite all who are proposing insurance to call on us before completing arrangements, and those who are desirous of information as to the condition of the various Life Companies, may have access to the Reports of the Insurance Commissioners of the different States, which give the most important facts, necessary for the public to have on the subject by calling at our office,
49 1-2 Exchange Street.

Dividend being Paid in 1868--100 per cent.
THE MUTUAL BENEFIT
Life Insurance Company!
Newark, N. J.
Organized, 1845. - - - Charter Perpetual.
Assets Over $15,000,000.
Annual Income over $6,000,000.
Annual Dividends 50 per ct. in Three Years.
Dividends Declared to Members, over $7,000,000.
This Company is STRICTLY MUTUAL,--It has no "Leech-like Stockholders"--pays no bonuses to officers, nor immoderate commissions to Agents.
Care in the selection of risks, and economy in expenditure, are the distinguishing features of its management.
☞ Every desirable or advantageous feature, new or old, has either been introduced or adopted by this Company.
Dividends can remain with the Company to accumulate and be paid with the policy. After a few years it will thus become self sustaining.
It has always made Annual Dividends.
It never hazards principal for interests, and has never lost a dollar from investments.
It expenses of management have been for a series of years lower, while its ratio of surplus has been and still is, proportionably larger, than any other Company; from which it necessarily and mathematically follows:
1st--That this Company having the largest ratio of surplus affords
The Greatest Safety and Security to its Members.
2d--That as it consumes the least of its income in running expenses, IT HAS THE MOST LEFT FOR ITS MEMBERS, and is therefore The Cheapest Company to Insure in!
To every man who invests his money in Life Insurance--be it much or little--these considerations are of paramount and vital importance, and no where else but in Life Insurance would they ever be disregarded.
All persons desiring reliable and accurate information concerning the standing and condition of the various Life Insurance Companies of this Country, are invited to call at my Office, where access to all the Reports of the Insurance Commissioners, and every possible facility for obtaining such information as will stand the test of coming years will be cheerfully and freely furnished.

M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, two candidates for Electors at large, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate and one additional delegate for every seventy-five votes cast for Joshua L. The Republican Platform.

The National Republican Party of the United States, assembled in National Convention, in the city of Chicago, on the twentieth day of May, 1868, make the following declaration of principles:

First—We congratulate the country on the assured success of the reconstruction policy of Congress, as evinced by the adoption by a majority of the States lately in rebellion, of constitutions securing equal civil and political rights to all. It is the duty of the government to sustain these institutions and to prevent the people of such States from being remitted to a state of anarchy.

Second—The guarantee by Congress of equal suffrage to all loyal men at the South was demanded by every consideration of public safety, of gratitude, and of justice, and must be maintained. The whole question of suffrage in the loyal States properly belongs to the people of those States.

Third—We denounce all forms of repudiation as a national crime. The national honor requires the payment of the public indebtedness in the utmost good faith, to all creditors at home and abroad, not only according to the letter, but to the spirit of the law under which it was contracted.

THE PRESS

Saturday Morning, June 13, 1868.

☞ First Page to-day—Open and Tight Barns; Hay Making; The Spanish Gypsy; Varieties.

Fourth Page—Periwinkle's Plan.

WOOLEY'S DAY OF MARTYRDOM are over and he goes forth from the castle of the ogre, Butler, a free man once more—a rollicking sort of a John Rogers he is, too, getting drunk, betting, gambling, buying stock and Senators at his own sweet will. Who comes next?

THE members of the House of Representatives, standing in wholesome awe of their constituents, hrve reluctantly and poutingly consented to go in with the tax bill which the terrible grim old fellows of the Ways and Means Committee have presented for their consideration. They have concluded to sweat it out.—With only five thousand dollars a year, mileage, the franking privilege and some little perquisites, they regard the requirements of the people as an outrage. But when the tax bill gets to the Senate where the legislators are not so immediately responsible to the people there is little prospect that it will receive prompt attention. The portly, prosperous Senators prefer to spend the summer months at home. The difference between six years and two years is very appreciable in many things besides arithmetic.

NO NEW PARTIES.—The New York Post declares that if Chief Justice Chase is nominated for the Presidency by the Democrats it shall regard that event as the signal for the disorganization of the existing political parties, leaving their adherents to form new associations in accordance with their views on questions other than those upon which the country is now divided. The contingency has not yet arisen and certainly will not this year. If Chase should be nominated by the Democrats and allowed to stand on his own platform there would still be an extremely visible line of divis on between existing party organizations. Chase professes to adhere firmly to his old ideas on impartial suffrage; the Republican party believe in realizing those ideas and making them facts through its reconstruction policy, including military government and the Freedmen's Bureau, which the judicial foot of the Chief Justice spurns. Under the morbid excitement of a burning presidential fever Mr. Chase ceases to hold his old humane and philanthropic political opinions except as mere abstract propositions. He says to the negro, "Have the ballot; it belongs to you,—but no means whatever shall be taken to secure it for you." The Republican party says, "Your claim to the ballot is righteous, and all legitimate means shall be taken to guarantee it to you and your descendants." The individuality of the two parties will therefore remain perfect, though Chase should be the nominee.—The concession of the justice of impartial suffrage, even as an abstract principle, would be a flattering proof of the progress the Republican party has made in educating public sentiment, and that is all. To that party would still belong the mighty task so well begun and now so nearly accomplished, of making the United States a republic in reality as well as in name.

MR. ROLLINS' LETTER.—The President is not an obstruction to the restoration of the Union alone; his influence is most pernicious in respect to the public revenues. Mr. Rollins, the efficient Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was forced from office after a long period of hopeless struggles against fate and the administration, because his superiors would not second his efforts to place honest men in the revenue service. We append an abstract of Mr. Rollins' letter of resignation addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury:

He states as the reasons for his resignation, that after the Philadelphia Convention there were numerous removals of assessors and collectors of the internal revenue throughout the country for political considerations, which was a sad blow to the reputation and efficiency of the service. They were made regardless of his wishes as commissioner, and he would have resigned long ago, but he had yielded to the judgment of friends, who thought that the public interests would be promoted by his remaining in office. All the nominations since have been made without reference to his opinion of their fitness, and his recommendations for removals even for the grossest misconduct, have been almost universally disregarded.—Assistant assessors and inspectors, appointed in accordance with the usage, by the Secretary upon the nomination of assessors and collectors, are either dishonest or incompetent, and their removal he sees no hope of securing. While he continues in office, he is sought to be made responsible for these failures, although absolutely powerless to prevent them. He closes with an acknowledgment of the personal and official kindness of the Secretary towards him.

THE LAST ASSASSINATION.—Assassination in making the tour of the world. The United States, Canada, South America, Australia and Europe have within a short time furnished one or more instances of the use of this barbarous method of attempting to reach political ends. A cable dispatch from Belgrade reports the assassination of Prince Michael of Servia. Prince Michael, the youngest son of the late Prince Milos Obrenovitch, has been ruler of Servia since 1838. Under him Servia had made great progress in emancipating herself from the supremacy of the Sultan. In 1867, the Turks abandoned all the fortresses in which they had a right to keep a garrison; and the whole dependence of Servia upon Turkey now consists only in the payment of an annual tribute. The Prince was a devoted partisan of Russia, and encouraged as much as he could the Pan Slavistic tendencies in Turkey and Austria. He leaves no children.

NEWS ITEMS.—The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers and Planters meet at Boston Thursday. Resolutions were passed in favor of legislation in the different States establishing a uniform rate of tare, measures for tracing defective bales to the original packers and in favor of a more perfect organization among persons interested in the culture and manufacture of cotton. A committee on tare was appointed in which Maine is represented by Augustus Haines.

Little hope is entertained of the recovery of ex Gov. Buckingham of Connecticut who lies ill at Warsaw, Indiana.

Great alarm is felt in Europe at the proposed journey of Prince Napoleon to Baden Baden, Munich, Vienna, Pesth, Bucharest, Constantinople and Athens.

Political Notes.

The new Senators, Vickers of Maryland and McCreery of Kentucky are, except Garrett Davis, the poorest orators of that body.

Ohio's first gun in the campaign comes from one of the southeastern judicial districts, in which Loomis, the Republican candidate, was elected by 1815 majority, a gain of 227 over Gen. Hayes' vote, last fall.

The ninth nomination of E. B. Washburne of Illinois to Congress is but a just recognition of his eminent public services. If all the Representatives watched and guarded the Treasury as faithfully as he does, they wou'd be very much better public servants and perhaps receive renominations by acclamation, as he does.

Montgomery Blair is working for his brother Frank as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

The Union League of Philadelphia gives notice that its members will not be driven by any party lash to vote for or support incompetent and unfit men.

It is not supposed that the Conservative soldiers who meet at New York on the same day with the Democratic National Convention will attempt to dictate the latter body any further than to require that Pendleton and men of his stamp shall not be nominated. They are for Hancock, Chase or Hendricks, as the Democratic Convention may determine.

It is said that the report of Butler's investigating committee will be a valuable campaign document.

The Chase consultation meeting in Philadelphia on Wednesday was presided over by F. P. Stanton, ex-Governor of Kansas, and was participated in by about fifty gentlemen from Massachusetts. Brief resolutions in favor of Judge Chase were adopted. Encouraging dispatches by telegraph and letter were received from all parts of the country. Speeches were made, showing the advantages to be derived by the country from the election of Mr. Chase. A committee of one hundred, headed by Chas. G. Halpine of New York, was appointed to present the resolutions to the Democratic National Convention, and to urge the nomination of Chief Justice Chase.

The New Jersey Republican State Convention is to be held in Trenton on the 9th of July, to nominate an electoral ticket.

The Republican Congressional Convention of the seventh Indiana district, at Lafayette, Wednesday nominated Hon. C. S. Orth for re-election to Congress.

The New Hampshire Thursday legislature has elected the following Executive officers: Secretary of State—John D. Lyman of Farmington; State Treasurer—Peter Sanborn of Concord; State Printer—John B. Clarke of Manchester; Warden of State Prison—Joseph Mayo of Concord. John A. Brown of Portsmouth was chosen Commissary General.

Commencement at Kent's Hill.

KENT'S HILL, June 11th, 1868.

To the Editor of the Press:

Thursday was the last day of the Commencement exercises. At ten o'clock a procession headed by our splendid Portland Band, was formed in front of the College, and marched to the church to listen to the closing exercises of the graduating classes.

These, like the exercises of the first day, were all of a very high order, and one proof of this may be found in the fact, that the vast crowd sat from ten o'clock till four, without one word of dissatisfaction.

By reference to programme below it will be seen that the ladies occupied just half the time, and if the opponents of womans' rights and of woman's speaking in public, could have been present, all their horrible fears must have "vanished into thin air,"—very thin.

It was generally conceded by all that the articles of the ladies, taken as a whole were superior to those of the gentlemen, while their elocution was but little, if at all inferior.

The following was the progamme;

1. Salutatory, Katie S. Spalding, S Thomaston.
2. The March of Intellect, John L. Stevens, New Sharon.
3. Fathomless Depths, Carrie E. Cole, Kent's Hill.
4. Italy in Chains, William H. Van Cott, Jr., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

8. Work, Charles W. Taylor, Bath.
9. Voices from St. Helena, Etta M. Greenwood, Farmington.
10. Our Country, Melville C. Tiwing, Boston, Mass.
11. Patmos, Hattie E. Pack, Chesterville.
12. Remembrances, Sanford H. Williams, Kent's Hill.
13. Improvement, A. Cutter Sibley, Belfast.
14. The Philosopher's Stone, Sara A. Leonard, N. Monmouth.

16. Mary, Queen of Scots, Susan L. Stevens, W. Waterville.
17. Requisites to True Greatness, Charles W. Young, E. Pittston.
18. Compensation, Mary E Chapman, Kent's Hill.
19. History, John E. Cutter Kent's Hill.

28. Clouds, Etta C. Stone, Jay.
29. Political Ethics, William S Pattee, Bangor.
30. The Co quest of Right, Emma A. Stone, Jay.
31. The Curse, a Blessing, Mary F. Deering, S Paris.
32. Radicalism, Perry Chandler, Bethel.
33. Light, Annie F. Cox, Hallowell.
34. Civilization and National Glory, Clarence Williams, Kent's Hill.
35. Science, the Handmaid of Religion, A. William Waterhouse, Industry.
36. Valedictory, Ellen A. Wing, Fairfield.

CONFERRING DEGREES.

After the Valedictory President Torsey presented graduates from the College with diplomas conferring the usual degree of A. B. The names of these graduates are as follows:—Misses Susan L. Stevens, West Waterville, Mary E. Chapman, Kents Hil, Ella R. Pike, Live more Falls, Sarah H. Keith, Augusta, Mary E. Harriman, Kents Hill, Fannie A. Davis, Hallowell, Etta C. Stone, Jay, Emma A. Stone, Jay, Mary E. Deering, South Paris, Annie F. Cox, Hallowell, Ellen A. Wing, Fairfield, Hattie E. Park, Chesterville.

We can scarcely imagine a more beautiful sight than was presented by these thirteen young ladies, all dressed in purest, emblematic white, as they stood there together upon the platform to receive the degree, which until very recently has been enjoyed only by the "lords of creation."

All the other ladies and gentlemen in the above programme, were graduates of the Seminary and classical course of study; and all were presented with suitable diplomas.

PRIZES.

Prizes were conferred upon the following persons.

Alden J. Blethen for excellence in declamation.

Mary E Chapman for excellence in reading

William S. Pattee for excellence in composition,

Miss N. Woodward for excellence in Bookkeeping.

S. S. Skofield for excellence in writing.

I should have stated above that the degree of A. M., in course, was conferred upon a large number of former graduates, whose names I cannot give to day, but will furnish to-morrow.

LEVEE.

A levee was held in the College in the evening, and proved a very brilliant affair. It gave an opportunity for a social reunion, that only students and alumni can fully appreciate.

The Commencement has been a success complete in every respect.

There are several matters of importance which I reserve for another communication.

Cruise of the Laurel.

YACHT LAUREL,
SMALL POINT HARBOR, June 12, 1868.

To the Editor of the Press:

You should see us this morning. Do you remember how Micawber, after he had decided to go to Australia, put on a bold and swaggering air and carried a tin dipper in his pocket in order to get accustomed to roughing it? You should see the nautical gait which we counterfeit after yesterday's experience, the knowing way in which we look at the clouds, and the comical manner in which we keep our hands half closed as Capt. Marryatt says the genuine seadog always does. I have been chewing tobacco a little but don't like it.

Small Point harbor is to leeward of Boothbay or was last night when the wind was easterly and right in our teeth. The Laurel is the only yacht here, which circumstance will account for the fact that instead of recording the movements of the squadron I am compelled simply to describe the cruise of the Laurel. This ancient and staunch as ancient craft was designated by the commodore yesterday, on account of her sailing qualities, to start first, and passed the flagboat off Custom House wharf at 11 o'clock precisely. She was passed off Fort Gorges by the Ella, Capt. Delano, but by a literal "streak" of luck, a current of air in the midst of surrounding calm, recovered her lead off Brimstone ledge, four miles from Portland, and kept it for the next three miles to Chebeague narrows, where the Clarence Capt. Jones, Whisper, Capt. Thomas, and one, or two other boats by some fatal facility of modern naval architecture got ahead.

At about 2 o'clock the whole fleet was in sight and becalmed in the vicinity of Eagle island. Little puffs of wind at intervals helped one or another vessel along, and several hours were spent in working by Little Mark island, the fleet meanwhile becoming widely scattered. At about 5 o'clock Capt. Goddard, who is a good judge of course, and of courses took advantage of a light puff of air and passed between Joquish and Bailey's islands in Harpswell. At that time the rest of the fleet were standing out at sea apparently to get an offing so as to run for Kennebec entrance, but the wind again subsided and when last seen, they were still far out. We got an easterly breeze again at half past 6, gradually freshening, and began to beat up to this harbor, making the 8 miles in about 3 hours. An exhilerating rain was falling during the entire period occupied by this maneuvre. It continued to fall during the night, and this morning it rains, but we are comfortably housed with Mr. Lowell of the "Bath House," and intend to wait here for fair weather, if it takes all summer.

The last that was seen of our consorts they were pretty well out, but just at dark as we passed Wood island, signals were sent up from the neighborhood of Bald Head, and some fishermen have just reported that the fleet lay at anchor there during the night. In that case they have a clear start of us this morning unless the Judge removes his injunction against sailing in the rain. SEBATTIS.

[Dispatches from Bootbay announce that the Ella and Whisper reached Fort Popham sometime during the night; the Nettle and Sparkle arrived at Boothbay at 4 o'clock yesterday morning; the Spy, Ray, Clarence and Kate, lay at Bald Head, and arrived at Bootbay at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The whole fleet, except the Laurel, then sailed for Bath where they arrived last night.—ED.]

State News.

HANCOCK COUNTY.

In Ellsworth, last week, as we learn from the American, Mr. Lewis Wentworth, a young carriage-maker, was accidentally shot. Mr. Wentworth was in the store of H. B. Cunningham & Co., sitting on the counter, when the boy attending in the store, went to the writing desk to put away some paper, and seeing a pistol lying in the desk, he took it up, and in handling it, it went off. He did not know it was loaded and was not aware that it was aimed at anybody. Mr. Wentworth was about three feet from him, and had turned his head to look at him. He died instantly.

PENOBSCOT COUNTY.

The Whig says: At Bow Falls, on the Merrimac river on Saturday last, Mr. Nathan L. Ricker, son of Deacon Marcus Ricker of Veazie, in this county, was drowned while at work breaking a jam of logs. He was 27 years of age, and leaves a wife and four children.

A Charleston correspondent of the Whig writes that the dwelling house together with the furniture therein, belonging to Patrick McAvery of Charleston, was destroyed by fire on Sunday May, 31st, together with forty dollars in money and a cow. Loss estimated at $1,200, with no insurance.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

During a shower last Sunday evening, the lightning struck a tree on the farm of Mr. Green in Cornville and killed a fine cow standing under it. Mr. Green had just left the spot, and was not so far away but that he experienced quite a shock.

FIRST MEETING OF THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

Tremendous Enthusiasm!

Portland Endorses Grant and Colfax!

Speeches by Gen. Shepley, Gov. Hawley, Hannibal Hamlin and Gov. Washburn. A Fair Start for the Grand Charge on the Enemy.

Notwithstanding the storm last evening City Hall was filled to its utmost capacity with men who are going to vote in November for Grant and Colfax and Equal Rights. Nor was there dearth of ladies who only await the removal of legal barriers to add their influence and efforts to the same cause in a more effectual way than by their presence at political meetings. Talk not of a lack of enthusiasm for Grant and Colfax, O misguided followers of Conservative leaders, for the name of either is as potent to raise shouts that foreshadow victory, as any that were ever presented to the American people. The storm was in league with the Democrats last night, but it mattered not; the Republican soldiers were all out. Considerable time has elapsed since the Convention, and the first grand emotions of satisfaction might be supposed to have subsided, but it did not prove to be the case. The people came out en masse. All their anticipations were realized. From our own speakers they knew they should derive instruction and pleasure, but until he had spoken they did not know what extraordinary gratification was in store for them through the introduction of Gov. Hawley. Hereafter it will always be a mystery to our people how Connecticut, even with New York for a neighbor, can be a Democratic State, when it numbers among its citizens so earnest, able and eloquent an advocate of the truer democracy which is called Democracy.

The meeting was called to order by Thomas B. Reed, Esq., of the Grant Club, who introduced Gen. Shepley, President of that organization, as the chairman of the meeting. On taking the chair Gen. Shepley made a few vigorous and timely remarks, that gave the keynote to the proceedings of the occasion. He said that it was hardly proper to speak of this as a ratification meeting, for the Chicago Convention itself was held merely to ratify the choice of the people already made, and this meeting was held to express the satisfaction of the people that their wishes have been observed. The shouts that greeted the name of Grant at Chicago were but feeble when compared with the shouts of twenty million people at the great ratification meeting in November. As the fiat of the Almighty created light to bless the world, so the will of Grant, mighty because it is the embodiment of the will of the people, will give the people peace. It will bring security for black and white, freedom of speech and freedom of the press, to all American citizens. Recurring to the Chicago Convention. Gen. Shepley said that the selection of a candidate for the Vice Presidency was not in accordance with the first wishes of the delegates from Maine and many other loyal States.—Every one knows who Maine's first choice was. At this allusion to the Hon. Hannibal Hamlin the applause was so enthusiastic and long continued that the speaker was obliged to pause until the tumult had subsided. Resuming, Gen. S. recapitulated the arguments which the Maine delegates urged upon the members of the convention in favor of their candidate. Mr. Hamlin's chances had been seriously injured by his own reluctance to have his name presented to the convention. Too many delegates had been pledged for other candidates before Hamlin's friends were in the field, yet Gen. S. believed that he was really the first choice of a majority of the delegates. But if Maine was denied her first choice, it is a fit subject for congratulation that she had her second. The nomination of Colfax was accepted by no one with more contentment than by the delegates from Maine. Passing to the other work of the Chicago Convention, the Republican platform, and speaking of the anti-repudiation plank, Gen. S. again received long continued applause by an allusion to the eloquent speech of Gov. Hawley on that occasion, when he said that "every bond was as sacred in letter and spirit as the soldiers' graves." The recognition of the rights of American citizens abroad in the platform, was also the subject of warm commendation. For a further report of the proceedings of the Chicago Convention the speaker introduced with a few complimentary remarks, that were richly deserved, the President of that body, of Connecticut, who was received with a perfect storm of applause, which for some time prevented his beginning. When at length he was permitted to begin, he gracefully said that the commendations of his personal and political friend, Gen. Shepley, had done him an injury, for he could not fulfil the promises that had been made in his behalf. After a brief reference to the events of the war, which he depicted with almost electric effect, Gen. Hawley proceeded to discuss the principles and policy of the Republican party. He said that the party had no disposition to exact any indemnity from the South, or to treat the Southern people with harshness or injustice. All we required was a guaranty for the future. We wanted, in short, the United States at last to be a Republic! The doings of the Chicago Convention had been everywhere received with intense satisfaction. Speaking of the extraordinary effect produced by the nominations and platform, Gov. Hawley said:—Every close observer of political matters has not failed to observe that the leading minds of the Democratic party began feeling for their old leaders and their old principles. The very fact that the influential men among them were discussing the possibility of the nomination of Salmon P. Chase was conviction in itself. Salmon P. Chase, I remember very well in my boyhood, read the first address of the National Liberty party; he was an original Birney man, and a friend of equal rights. And is the old hunker Democratic party going to nominate him? Upon what platform?

I tell you that man can never accept that nomination unless that party will substantially pledge its lf to fidelity to the national debt, and pledge itself not to interfere with, and probably not only not to interfere with, but to sanction impartial suffrage. The Democratic party taking that ground, our national debt forever secured, and our Government placed upon a just and sound basis, the negro even may vote! very well, gentlemen, suppose that parties do lose something by it, has not the country gained by it? Exultemus Domino. A united American people vindicate the national debt! Why, the great battle of the century is nine-tenths won when they dare to nominate him upon any such platform. But it will not avail them in the contest; for the American people will prefer to trust the Government in the hands of the original defenders of these principles. It will make the battle easier for us, and we may then rely upon the future.

When the old hunker copperhead, falsely called Democratic, party organizes by resolutions that when read by the public look as strong as ever, but are in reality, taking ground upon ideas that they have opposed for years, all these things presage to us a glorious victory.

We are obliged to pass over entirely without notice a glowing eulogy of the principles the support of which renders the Republican party worthy of victory, in order to give an imperfect sketch of Gov. Hawley's masterly description of Gen. Grant's characteristics:

They say that he is a man who is characterized by a stubborn will and extraordinary obstinacy, and that, while he has certainly wrought very remarkable results, there is nothing very admirable in that calm and irresistible and irreversible purpose which took him from Belmont to Appomattox Court House. But it was the will that we wanted. It is an exhibition of will that arises to an exhibition of genius. It is something that few men show. It is something which of itself marks them as great men. I call your attention to the fact that, while he is characterized by this firm will, he is also characterized by a spirit of obedience and docility. He is a man who is a perfect examplar of the spirit of obedience. Says General Halleck, who was sometimes disposed to be critical, he never complained and never hesitated to obey an order. General Sherman, whom we are accustomed to look upon as a man of great genius, and yet General Sherman held back from the Vicksburg expedition. General Halleck says there is no more brilliant exploit in military history than that of General Grant at Vicksburg; where he cut loose from his supplies, not knowing where he was to depend upon for more, and without calling a counsel of war, and against the opinion of every leading general that he had under him, except it were John Logan, and by his comprehensive ability and power swung a mass of men, a dozen masses of men, and cut away from his base, and marched them hither and thither, and brought about a magnificent success. There was nothing in this which would come from a mere bull-dog pertinacity.

Gen. Hawley read an extract from a letter of Gen. Sherman's in December, 1863, showing his high appreciation and friendship for Gen. Grant.

When a man of will and brilliant talents like Gen. W. T. Sherman comes down to this, I tell you there is inspiration in his words. You cannot say that Gen. Grant, in such a position, is a man of inferior abilities. He has those elements of greatness in him that he can command great men. He knew how to judge of men, and he brought out and built up great men. Who brought forward Gen. Schofield? Who brought forward George H. Thomas, a man who, almost as much as Gen. Sherman himself, was accepted by General Grant as his right arm? Who brought out Gen. Phil. Sheridan? Why, by the time Gen. Grant had full command of the reins of that great army, the big men had come to the top, and we were ready, if need be, for a fifty years' war with the world; for we had young Napoleons all around him.

I tell you it is one of the greatest marks of human worth in a man that he knows men and knows where to pick out better and abler men. And in that respect certainly General Grant surpasses any of his predecessors in the command of a great army of a nation. Now all these men not only cheertully obeyed him, but they loved him. It was his genius to be loved; let him have the justice to be honored. Do you know in what terms Abraham Lincoln addressed him, in acknowledging the almost inestimable services which he had done the country? He acknowledged to him after Vicksburg—"You was right, and I was wrong."

We shall commit these great trusts to his hands. In the language of Abraham Lincoln, "as the country herein trusts you so will the country under God sustain you."

It is for us to finish the work. Somewhere in the perilous and stormy edge of battle I remember seeing an officer spring upon a log and cheer his troops, I remember how he talked to his men, and thrilled me so that I wanted to jump in and go with them: "Say you will, men! Say you will!" And this same "Say you will!" is all that is necessary for us to win a perfectly successful and final victory in this great contest.

At the conclusion of the eloquent speech of Gov. Hawley, the chairman introduced as "the man who but for an unfortunate dispensation of Providence would have been at this moment the President of the United States."

HON. HANNIBAL HAMLIN.

Mr. Hamlin was received in such a manner as must have been gratifying even to a man who has for years been accustomed to flattering receptions. He said that he merely took the stand to express his hearty approval of the nominations made at Chicago. He spoke of Gen. Grant as a man whose strong common sense is better than genius. For a few years past we have had a little too much uncommon sense. We shall certainly come to the support of Grant in November as we came to his support in the field. We propose to elect him and are sure to do it. Of the candidate for the Vice Presidency, Mr. Hamlin spoke in the most generous and handsome manner, assuring his hearers that from several years of somewhat intimate acquaintance with Mr. Colfax, he was prepared to say that he was a man to be trusted most unreservedly. Mr. Hamlin said that it was poor taste to refer to one's self unless there is a special reason for doing so, but he thought that he was justified by the allusion of the chairman to himself in making a personal explanation. He would tender to the Maine delegation at Chicago his heartfelt thanks for their gallant efforts in his behalf. But what the President of the meeting had said was true; he (Mr. Hamlin) had not desired the office of Vice President, and he had uniformly and persistently written and spoken accordingly. There was no personal disappointment to prevent his most hearty support of the candidates—the platform of his party. He would have every true Republican go to work as if the success of the party depended on his own personal exertions. As the soldiers at the battle of the Wilderness sang "Rally Round the Flag Boys," though torn and mangled by Democratic shot and shell, he would have the members of the Republican party, the successors of the soldiers of the war, rally once more around the national banner, and give Gen. Grant another victory and elect him President in November.

We cannot help repeating that Mr. Hamlin must have been pleased with the evidences of the respect and admiration which the people of his own State feel toward him that were exhibited last evening. The history of the man and his patriotic conduct, fresh in the memory of his hearers, excited the wildest enthusiasm.

Gen. Shepley next introduced

who made some very brief but eminently pithy and amusing remarks. He said that this could not properly be called a ratification meeting, for the work done at Chicago was ratified beforehand. He defied the opposition party to "match" either platform or candidates. Gen. Grant was the peer of Napoleon as a soldier, of Washington as a patriot, and of Lincoln in purity and kindliness of heart. The platform is but an outgrowth of the national feeling at the present time, and was as satisfactory as any that could possibly have been constructed. Gov. Washburn's remarks abounded in amusing anecdotes and in sharp hits at the enemy. Though the hour was late when he closed the hall was still crowded, and would have continued so had he drawn out his remarks at much greater length.

The meeting adjourned with cheers for Grant and Colfax and for the speakers, loud and long enough to awaken all the somnolent Democrats in town. Well done for the first Republican meeting of the Presidential campaign of 1868!

WHY NOT?—To-day the wholesale merchants in Boston close their places of business at 2 P. M., thereby giving themselves and their clerks a few hours for out-door recreation. They experience no loss by so doing, but in fact make a gain, and besides improving their health, find themselves better fitted and more enterprising for the next week's arduous and wearing labors. We cannot see any reason why this same plan could not be adopted by our wholesale merchants in this city with like results. Four o'clock P. M., is the latest that any freight is received at the depots, and the last mail that brings business letters Saturday is distributed at 3 o'clock P. M. These letters can as well lay over till Monday morning before they are acted upon, as nothing is accomplished now till the first of the week on letters received Saturday afternoon. The only thing necessary is for the business men to unite in this matter, and the plan will surely be adopted, and much good be done; for what chance has a clerk, who is confined within doors twelve hours per day for keeping good that great blessing, health. It is a well known fact that to perform the duties of a clerk, especially as book-keeper, it needs a much stronger constitution than to be engaged in mechanical pursuits, for exercise keeps the body good. We hope soon to see a movement made in this direction, which will be a successful one.

BOLD BURGLARIES.—Since White was captured, more than six months ago, the burglaries in this city have been very few and comparatively of little importance; but Thursday night there were two committed in the upper part of the town that equal in boldness those of this notorious character. The houses of Mr. Charles J. Barbour and Mr. Jefferson Coolidge, on Spring street, were both entered. A niece of Mr. Barbour had a gold watch, a set of jewels and a small sum of money stolen from her room, she having gone to stay with a neighbor. Nothing else has been missed from the house, though considerable ransacking was done. No traces of the entrance were left, and the front door was found unlocked.

Mr. Coolidge's sleeping room was entered and his gold watch and $50 in money taken. The thief here went into every part of the house, and many partly burned matches were found, but nothing but the above mentioned articles have been thus far missed. The entrance was effected from the rear of the premises through a small window which had been left unbolted. No trace of the robbers has yet been discovered.

BRIEF LOCALS.—The police court was without business again yesterday and the lock-up was empty.

The steamer H. H. Day of the ferry line to Cape Elizabeth has been hauled off for repairs. A new boiler has been put in and the boat will be placed in a good state of repair before going on again. The two large sailing boats are now doing the carrying trade between our city and the suburb. Why wouldn't a large ferry boat, capable of carrying teams and carriages, pay to ply between this city and Cape Elizabeth. The growth is very rapid over there.

What is the Portland Water Company laying a pipe from here to Sebago Lake for? Water has been brought into the city too much already, and the wind is East now.

A large number of the leading Democratic politicians of the State were in the city yesterday, canvassing the preliminaries of the coming campaigns.

THE THEATRE.—For the last two evenings there has been a goodly number at Deering Hall, and Mr. Murray's popular dramatic company has delighted the audience each evening, receiving the applause, which they, in presenting their well selected pieces, so richly deserved. Last evening the play of "Moll Pitcher, or the Witch of Lynn," was brought out in a very creditable manner. Mr. Murray received rounds of applause in his representation of Jotham Hook, Jr., and he was supported by the full strength of the company, with Mrs. J. R. Healey as Moll Pitcher, Mr. Healey as Maladin, Miss Mary Estelle as Rosali Elliston, Mrs. J. Murray as Nabby, and Miss Florence Noble as Mrs. Hook. The performance passed off with unusual smoothness, and we predict a full house for Mr. Murray when he again appears next Monday evening.

WE noticed yesterday on Spring street, a horse taking his "barks" from a beautiful elm tree. The practice is getting to be quite too common of leave horses near our shade trees. Something should be done by our city authorities to prevent this mutilation, and consequent destruction.

FUN TO-NIGHT.—The famous Buckleys' Serenaders are to give us one of their interesting and amusing entertainments this evening at Deering Hall.

WE would call the attention of those living in the vicinity of the Allen Mission Chapel to the services to-morrow evening at 7 1-2 o'clock. Seats free.

RETURN OF COMMISSIONER ROLLINS' LETTER OF RESIGNATION.

The letter of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, tendering the resignation of his office to the Secretary of the Treasury, and giving reasons therefor, was last evening returned to Mr. Rollins with the following endorsement:—"The within communication, just handed to me, although bearing date of the 8th inst., is considered partial and incorrect in its statements and unjust and disrespectful to the President. It is, therefore, returned to Mr. Rollins. HUGH McCULLOCH, Secretary.

Thursday evening, June 11, 1868.

REPLY OF MR. ROLLINS.

Commissioner Rollins has again sent his resignation to Secretary McCulloch, with the following endorsement:—"Unless the Honorable Secretary shall point out wherein the enclosed communication is either partial and incorrect in its statements or unjust and disrespectful to the President, I must consider its return to me as unjustifiable and the reasons therefor other than those assigned."

XLth CONGRESS—Second Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Mr. Sumner, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a bill granting Walter Lowe, of Nashua, compensation for services rendered gunboat Tioga.

A bill was reported requesting the President to intercede with Queen Victoria for the release of Rev. Mr. McMahon, confined at Kingston, C. W. Passed.

Mr. Harlan, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, reported with amendment a bill to regulate contested elections in Washington, D. C. He urged its immediate consideration for the purpose of preventing anarchy in the city.

Mr. Hendricks objected, and the bill went over.

Mr. Edmunds introduced a bill in relation to an act to regulate the time and manner of holding elections for Senators in Congress.

The Senate discussed the bill relative to the Western Pacific Railroad Company to the expiration of the morning hour, when without action it was laid aside.

Mr. Sherman's bill supplementary to an act to provide a national currency secured by pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation thereof, came up.

The question was on amendments by the Committee on Finance. The first three amendments were adopted.

Mr. Wilson moved to strike out the provision increasing the circulation to twenty millions for States and territories having less than five dollars per inhabitant, and insert a clause increasing it to one hundred millions and reducing greenbacks one hundred millions.

Mr. Morrill of Vermont opposed it, and moved to add a proviso that the Secretary of the Treasury shall be authorized to withdraw an equal amount of United States notes.

A long discussion followed.

Mr. Sherman opposed the amendment as opening up the whole currency question, which the committee had thought it wise to avoid in the present heated state of politics.

Mr. Wilson replied that New York and Pennsylvania has more than two-thirds of the circulation, and he was in favor of free banking.

After further debate, Mr. Wilson asked for a division on his amendment, and the question being on the first part thereof, it was lost without a division.

At the suggestion of Mr. Sherman, Mr. Wilson withdrew the latter part.

Mr. Morrill of Vermont moved to amend by adding at the end of the section the words: And on the issue of any increase of national circulation provided for in this section, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and required to permanently withdraw an equal amount of United States notes.

Mr. Drake protested at the attempt of the New England States, already gorged with circulation, to deny an increase to the West.

Mr. Wilson remarked that there is now $650,000,000 in the country, which is a larger proportion than before the war, and he asserted that the banking capital of New England has not increased but has diminished since the beginning of the war.

At half-past four, without further action, the Senate went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.

The House accepted an invitation from the Executive Committee of the National Sharp Shooters to attend a public festival at Jones' Woods, New York, June 27th.

The Speaker appointed the following members to represent the House: Messrs. Garfield, Paine, Chauler and Orth.

Mr. Bingham, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported back the Senate amendments to admit certain States to representation in Congress, with the recommendation that the amendments be concurred in.

Mr. Spalding moved to concur in the amendments of the Senate, with an amendment striking out Alabama.

Mr. Farnsworth moved to strike Florida out of the bill, and proceeded to give his reasons for the motion. He was thoroughly convinced that Florida ought not to be admitted with its present constitution.

Mr. Butler replied to the arguments of Messrs. Farnsworth and Paine, and declared that the new constitution of Florida was similar to that under which the people of Massachusetts and of other New England States and of New York had so long lived.

Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, remarked that so far as he was concerned he would remand Florida to a territorial condition. He did not want her to come here with two Senators to offset the Senators from Illinois, Pennsylvania or New York, particularly with such a constitution.

Mr. Farnsworth asked Mr. Hubbard whether the Reconstruction Committee approved even to-day the constitution of Florida.

Mr. Hubbard replied that it did.

Mr. Bingham said he desired the action of the House speedily on the bill, and he would therefore call the previous question, but first he would ask his colleague (Spalding) whether he desired to offer his amendment now.

Mr. Spalding—Yes; I move to strike out Alabama from the bill.

Mr. Bingham addressed the House in support of the bill.

After further debate the motion to exclude Florida from the bill was defeated by yeas 45, nays 69, and the Senate amendments concurred in, yeas 111, nays 28. The bill now goes to the President for his signature.

By unanimous consent, at the suggestion of the Speaker, the committee to represent the House at the National Sharpshooter's festival in New York, was increased from five to seven, and the Speaker appointed as the two additional members, William H. Robertson, of New York, and Mr. Knott, of Kentucky.

Mr. Schenck, at the suggestion of Mr. Robertson, reported from the Committee on Ways and Means a joint resolution to remit the duties on certain articles contributed to the National Association of American Sharpshooters to an amount not exceeding $10,000 in currency. Passed unanimously.

Mr. Butler reported a bill appropriating $150,000 to aid the Indian Peace Commissioners. Ordered to be printed and referred to committee of the whole.

The House at half past 3 proceeded to the business of the morning hour the reception of reports of a private nature from the Committee on Invalid Pensions. A large number of bills passed.

The House then took a recess.

EVENING SESSION.

The House in committee resumed the consideration of the tax bill.

Some progress was made when the committee rose, and the House agreed to sit from 11 till 5 to-morrow, having no evening session.

MISS SAWYER'S

SALVE!

HERE you have a salve combining soothing and healing properties, with no dangerous ingredient. A remedy at hand for the many pains and aches, wounds and bruises to which the flesh is heir. Is more easily applied than many other remedies, never producing a bad effect, but always relieving pain, however severe.

It is prepared by MISS SAWYER, who has used it in her own extensive treatment of the sick, for nearly twenty years, with great success.

The principle diseases for which this Salve is recommended are, Chilblains, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Old Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sprains, Burns, Fever Sores, Felons, Pimples, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Barber's Itch, Deafness, Boils, Ring-worms, Corns, Bites of Insects, Cancers, Toothache, Earache, Sore Nipples, Baldness, Swollen Breasts, Itch, Scald Head, Teething, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Croup, Cracked Lips, and Sores on children.

It will never fail to cure Rheumatism if properly applied. Rub it on well with the hand three times a day. In several cases it has cured palsied limbs, For PILES it has been discovered to be a sure remedy. Persons who have been afflicted for years have been relieved by a few applications. For ERYSIPELAS it works wonders, allaying the inflammation and quieting the patient. For CHAPPED HANDS it produces a cure immediately. Let those with SALT RHEUM obtain this Salve and apply it freely, and they will find it invaluable. It is good in case of SCROFULA and TUMORS.—CANCERS have been cured with it. The best Salve ever invented for SWOLLEN BREAST and SORE NIPPLES. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. SORE or WEAK EYES—Rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. Cures deafness by putting it in the ears on a piece of cotton. For PIMPLES this acts like a charm. For BURNS and SCALDS—apply the Salve at once and it gives immediate relief. For OLD SORES, apply once a day.

FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.—For Sores or bruises on Horses or Cattle this Salve is invaluable, and has astonishing effect in curing scratches on horses. This Salve has worked its own way into notoriety, and is a safe and sure remedy for all the above ailments.

PUT UP IN BOXES AT

25cts, 50cts. and $1.00 each.

A great saving is made by taking large box.

PREPARED BY

MISS C. SAWYER

AND PUT UP BY

L. M. ROBBINS,

Wholesale and Retail Druggist,

Rockland, Maine.

Who is Miss Sawyer?

Miss Sawyer lives in the city of Rockland, Knox County, Maine. She has devoted the best years of her life to nursing the sick, and has had more experience in the cure of obstinate diseases, old Sores and Ulcers, and has also been consulted in more cases of accidents, such as Burns, Scalds and Bruises than any other person in New England, professional or otherwise. She has competed successfully with the most able physicians in the States, as well as with nurses and Indian doctors. From time to time she has compounded remedies for the use in certain diseases in her own practice. Among other compounds she has for many years made a Salve which soon obtained an extensive Sale, and is low in great demand abroad, as well as in private families and among the hundreds of men engaged at Rockland and vicinity in the hazardous business of quarrying rock and burning lime, and also among the seamen along the coast of Maine. So popular did it become that while it was only put up in old mustard boxes, without labels or the help of advertisements, Miss Sawyer received orders for it from nearly or quite every State in the Union. The demand finally became so extensive that she was unable to meet it, and she made an arrangement with L. M. ROBBINS, a druggist of Rockland, to take charge of the business and supply the trade. The agent is so well satisfied with the merits of the Medicine that he guarantees it to cure all diseases for which it is recommended, and any one who gives it a trial according to directions, and is not satisfied, is invited to return the box, with half the contents, and the money will be refunded. Full directions with each box.

Recommendations.

The following are a few selected from the multitude of recommendations in the possession of the Agent.

[From Mrs. Elizabeth Coombs, Brunswick.]

BRUNSWICK, April 4, 1867.

MISS SAWYER.—I received your letter last evening and was very glad you concluded to let me take your Salve. I think I can do well with it, and it will be quite an accommodation to my husband, as he cannot get along without it. He has tried everything else and has never found anything that healed his leg as that Salve of yours, and we have both found it to be all and even more than you recommended it to be. We have had it in the family 5 or 6 years, and I have used it for everything and can truly say we have never found its equal. I use it for weak back and it acts like a charm. Mr. Coombs has had a Fever Sore on his leg for thirty years and would be a cripple to-day if he had not found a remedy in your Salve. It keeps it healed, and takes out the inflammation, proud flesh, and swelling, and does for him all that he can ask. I can recommend it for a good many things you have not, for I use it for everything. I consider it invaluable in a family. If you can put this testimony together, and it can be of service to you, you are welcome.

You can send me large boxes if you please, and a few little ones. I can do better with the large ones.

Yours, &c., ELIZBETH COOMBS.

This certifies that I have used Miss Sawyer's Salve and consider it superior to any other. I cheerfully recommend it to all in want of a good Salve.

E. A. HELMERSHAUSEN.

January 25, 1867.

[From S. M. Stetson of Freeport, Maine]

FREEPORT, March 30, 1865.

I hereby testify that Miss Sawyer's Salve has cured a swelling on my heel of several years' standing. I gladly recommend it to the public as an invaluable remedy for swelling and lameness of any kind.

S. M. STETSON.

[From Dr. R. Richard Clay, Boston, Mass.]

This is to certify that I have known Miss Sawyer's Salve for more than five years, and of its having been success ully used in many cases. I consider it a superior article, and well worthy the confidence of those requiring such a remedy.

R. RICHARD CLAY, M. D.

Boston, Dec. 10th, 1867.

[From Mr. & Mrs. Wm. R. Kendall, Freeport, Me.]

Among the many Salves now in use, Miss Sawyer's stands pre-eminent for almost all the aches and pains the human family are afflicted with. For Rheumatism, Lame Joints, Nervous Headache, it gives instant relief. We have used it for several years, and find it an unfailing remed for burns, scalds, sore throat, salt rheum, swelled joints, &c., &c. We cheerfully recommend it to the public as being perfectly safe and good for many more aches than we have mentioned.

MR. & MRS. WM. R. KENDALL.

Freeport, March 17, 1867.

[From Rev. W. H. Crawford and wife, East Corinth Maine.]

East Corinth, Feb. 19, 1868.

This may certify that we have used "Miss Sawyer's Salve" in our family eight years and we can cheerfully bear testimony to its merits as a healing, soothing Salve in all cases of Salt Rheum or Inflammation.

REV. W. H. CRAWFORD.
JULIA A CRAWFORD.

[From John G. Dillingham, Freeport, Maine]

This is to certify that I had a tumor on my face. It was there about three years. It kept increasing in size, till I was advised to try Miss Sawyer's Salve. I bought a box and carried it with me, and every time I thought of it I would rub the tumor with the Salve, and before I used one box the tumor entirely disappeared.

JOHN G. DILLINGHAM.

We, the undersigned have sold more of Miss Sawyer's Salve, within the last six months than any other kind. Parties who have tried it speak in very high praise of its excellent virtues.

C. P. FESSENDEN,
S. E. BENSON,
L. M. ROBBINS.

Rockland, Oct. 12, 1867.

[From Moses B. Tibbetts, Jefferson, Me.]

I can recommend Miss Sawyer's Salve, highly.—I have never used so good an article. For healing purposes it is without an equal.

MOSES B. TIBBETTS.

[From Rev. Nathaniel Butler.]

It is simply an act of justice and perhaps it will be a favor to the public to say that I have used Miss. Sawyer's Salve for ten years, and believe it to be a most valuable remedy for the purposes for which it is recommended. It is most effective for animals in cases where a salve is ever used for them. It has proved an almost certain cure for ordinary scratches in horses.

NATH'L BUTLER.

Camden, Nov. 15, 1867.

We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with Miss Sawyer for many years, and believe her to be a christian lady and a skillful nurse, and having used her salve in our families, it gives us great pleasure in saying it is the best general medicine we have ever used:—

Selected Story.

PERIWINKLE'S PLAN.

A STORY FOR THE CHILDREN.

Every morning, at nine o'clock precisely, a team of mice pulled up before the palace door, and there stepped down, in prodigiously high-heeled shoes and leaning on a crutch nearly as tall as herself, the fairy who belonged to the royal family.

Not a soul, from the king and queen down to the smallest pink page, but hated the tap of that crutch, for this was a positive, perverse, pragmatical old fairy. She had been present at all the royal christenings ever since the days of the great, great, great, great, great, great, grandfather of the present king, and had never shown the slightest hesitation in turning any of these princelings into poodles and clocks and things of that sort. She used to insist on advising the king, and when he differed from her she had a way of saying, "Ah! that is just like your great grandfather, who grew as a pumpkin ten years in my garden." She lectured the queen about her linen and her maids; and it the queen pouted—

"My dear, she would cry, with a malicious twinkle, "if I ever transform you it shall be into a fan; a lace fan with gold sticks and pink swan's-down; you are so pretty my dear!" which made the queen hysterical and continually afraid that she felt herself turning into gold sticks; while she, that is, our fairy, used to rap the pages over the knuckles, and make little chills creep in their backs by telling them how she had whole papers of pins that were once pink pages like them—all of which was vastly unpleasant. But still the queen should not have laughed with her maids in the enchanted rooms; for when the fairy entered it again this is what she heard;

"With her hump,
And her crutch,
That goes thump, thump."

"What?" cried the fairy, stopping in astonishment.

"With her hump," repeated the snuffers, tittering.

"And her crutch," suggested the poker.

"That goes thump! thump! ha! ha!" roared the fire.

"Always prying and meddling," twanged the harp.

"She should see herself as others see her," said the mirror.

"Turning people into pumpkins and expecting them to be grateful," cried the easy-chair.

"If I had my way I would turn her out of the palace," squeaked the door.

"Yes, indeed," answered the curtains, and even the nine threads in the carpet.

All of which would have been intolerable impertinence, only the fairy's enchanted room was simply a chamber of echoes, which with its furniture repeated over and over again whatever had been said in it till Periwinkle (that was the fairy's name) came to hear it.

"Mighty well," said Periwinkle, grimly. "I shall be very sure to be at the christening."

This was the christening of the king's only son, who lay in state in a golden cradle; and I dare say if you had seen him you would have said that he was ugly, for, being very young, he was as red as a tomato, and had no nose worth mentioning. But all the courtiers declared that he was the finest prince in the world, and everybody came to see him. With the rest came Periwinkle.

She was so smiling that you could never have supposed that anything was wrong. But She Wore Her Yellow Cap!

Now when she wore that, as all the world knows, she was in a frightful humor.

"Periwinkle has her yellow cap on," whispered my Lord High Fiddlestick to the queen.

"Dear me! what can have happened?" answered the queen, guiltily remembering what she had said in the enchanted room. "I hope she won't wish something dreadful for the baby."

"A very fine child!" pronounced the fairy, in a high, squeaking voice, stepping to the foot of the golden cradle, "And he shall always be prosperous, on condition that he is never reproved or told that he has done anything wrong.

"Always prosperous! Oh, you dear, good Periwinkle!" cried the queen in rapture; and she could not thank the fairy sufficiently, although Periwinkle only answered her by leaning on her crutch and bursting into fits of shrill laughter.

All the wisest men in the kingdom were engaged as masters for the young prince as soon as he could learn. And, first, the man who wrote all the dictionaries in those days, and understood all languages, even that of the birds, came to teach him his alphabet.

"A," said the wise man.

"A,' said the prince.

"B," said the wise man.

The prince said nothing.

"B," your royal highness."

The prince ran away and began to chase the queen's lap-dog.

"Your royal highness must come back," the wise man was going to say, but the queen clapped her hands over his mouth.

"Good Heavens! my dear Mr. Dictionary, don't you know that the prince must never be reproved, or told that he has done wrong? You must wait till the prince chooses to come back."

The wise man waited till dark and then went away in a huff; and there was an end of learning the alphabet till, six months after, the prince said:

"I want to see the man who says 'A."

The wise man came at once, and repeated the alphabet, the prince repeating it after him. Then he began to ask the letters, one by one, till he came to "F."

"That is K," said the prince.

"Oh no!" the wise man was about to say, when he saw the king and queen and the Lord High Fiddlestick all beckoning to him in a great fright.

"Don't you know," they said to him, "that the prince must never be told that he is wrong?"

The man of dictionaries was silent, and the prince finished the alphabet in an hour, and went on to the spelling-book. This kept him busy only a week. It is true that he spelled dog cat, and book cow, and chair tool. But he reached the end while another child would have puzzed over the first three pages; and surely you cannot deny that here was fine getting on? Before you could think he was ready for geography, and they sent for the greatest traveler in the world, who had seen all the countries in the world himself.

He came at once—for he was charmed with the honor—and gave the prince a lesson. On the second day operations commenced in good earnest.

"Be pleased to bound China," commenced the traveler.

"China," answered the prince, "is bounded on the north by New York on the south by Japan, on the east by the Alps, and on the west by the North Pole."

The great traveler opened his eyes and mouth wide; but the queen interrupted him before he could speak a word.

"You must not tell the prince that he is wrong," she whispered; and after that the great traveler became very silent, and the prince learned geography as rapidly as he had done spelling.

With arithmetic he got on even better.—They brought the prince a man who was so clever that he actually thought in figures. But as he lived among his books he knew nothing of what was going on in the world; and when the prince told him that "twice two are five," he cried out bluntly, "Oh no! your royal highness!" which might have produced dreadful consequences if the Lord High Fiddlesticks had not instantly twisted his handkerchief about old Multiplicationtable's mouth and dragged him off before the prince could hear what he said.

As it was the queen fainted, and the shock to the whole court was so great that it was agreed that the prince should make no further attempts on arithmetic, but that his majesty should issue a decree ordering "that the prince should have a perfect knowledge of figures," which would answer quite as well, it was thought.

This method of education was an easy one for the prince, but you can hardly imagine in what continual trouble were his attendants and instructors. He was the most disagreeable boy in the world. He had never been instructed in civility, because no one could say to him, "you must not do that." He howled, sang, stamped, whistled and ran up and down in the church itself. He danced on the table if he had a mind. He threw the gravy in the king's face if he had a mind. He jumped into the water when he pleased, and people were obliged to fish him out, for of course he could not be taught to swim, as no one could say to him, "No, it must be done in this way." For the same reason he could never learn to sing or to dance or to drive. There never was such an oaf, such a blockhead, nor yet such a destroying fire! such a whirlwind of mischief!

One day he imagined that it would be fine to build a bonfire in the audience-room of the palace, and began to pile the furniture together. His guards ran for the queen.

"My stars!" cried the queen, when she saw what he was about, "send for the king."

"Good gracious!" roared the king; "call the council!"

"Oh, what shall we do!" exclaimed the queen. "He will burn up the palace but nobody must tell him that he is doing wrong."

The councilmen wagged their long beards, but said nothing—for what could they say?

The prince lighted the fire.

"Send for the fire-engines," shouted the king, as the smoke began to roll through the palace.

"Oh, my boy!" he will be burned! screamed the queen, and running to the prince she began to coax him to come out.

"Won't! won't!" said the prince. "Want to see pretty bonfire!" For though naturally clever, having never learned that he could hurt himself, or anybody else, this prince was little better than an idiot. And he sat there laughing, while the flames crackled over his head, and the queen and council screamed at him, and the councilmen lost their beards, and the prince his eyebrows, and the palace burned down with all its treasures and the royal family stood shivering in the snow; and they do say that Periwinkle was peeping at them from a chimney near by, and laughing till the tears ran down her face, though I never believed it myself. But however that may be, you see that such a proceeding was highly inconvenient; and there were plenty of people who hinted that it was a pity that the prince should have lost nothing but his eyebrows.

Now in a neighboring kingdom lived a princess who was said to be so clever and so beautiful that our prince fell in love with the mere report of her accomplishments, and sent her the following letter:

dere princis—i am goin to marry you nex weak so pleas com to my palas es soon es you kan. Prince-To-To.

This note he sent by a magnificent train of one hundred embassadors, and though the king and queen were sorry and ashamed enough, they dared not interfere. Accordingly it was brought with all due solemnity to the princess, who on reading it laughed heartily. But when on questioning the embassadors they assured her that the prince had always been favored with the best masters, and when she heard that Mr. Dictionary had taught him the alphabet, and the great traveler geography, and that he had finished his spelling-book in a week, and learned arithmetic in an hour, and every accomplishment that could be mentioned in a year, she concluded that there must be some hidden meaning in this ridiculous note which she was not clever enough to find out, and decided to go and see the prince herself.

When the queen heard that the princess had actually returned with the ambassadors she was so much astonished and in such a flurry that she could not get her crown straight, and was obliged to go down with it very much over her nose, so that it tumbled off as she embraced the princess. She had hardly recovered from the confusion of this unlucky accident when dinner was served, and as the princess was hungry they sat down at once.

"But where is the prince?" asked the princess, looking about her.

"Booh!, squeaked somebody near her, and the prince, who had been creeping about on his hands and knees, sprang up, laughing.

"My love, this is the princess," said the queen, turning very red, and the princess got up, and made him a fine courtesy.

"Ess, I know! Come, marry me," returned the Prince, sitting down, and commencing to carve at once.

The princess sat down also blushing as red as the queen had done, and thinking to herself, "Marry you, indeed! Why he talks like a baby, and behaves like a savage!"

"Bring water! Don't want wine," exclaimed the prince, suddenly, and before any one could reach him he threw his glass filled with wine across the table. This, as you know, was an everyday matter, and certainly not so bad as a boat full of gravy, but then it came full in the princess's face. Her hair was dripping, her dress was ruined. Everybody cried out, and the princess sprang to her feet.

"What's matter?" asked the prince.

"Matter!" cried the princess, spluttering and crying. "You are an idiot, sir. You know nothing at all."

"She has done it! She has done it!" screamed all the courtiers together. "She has reproved him, and his prosperity is at an end."

The queen fainted, the princess ran away, and the court went into mourning.

Then everybody asked why the court went into mourning."

"Because," answered the wise ones, "the strange princess has reproved our prince."

"But why did she reprove him?"

Then followed the story.

"But how did she reprove him?"

Then the wise ones whispered that she had called him an idiot.

"Idiot! Why, bless me, so he is," answered everybody. "I have always thought so, only I never put it in words before."

And by-and-by everybody said to his neighbor:

"The king and queen should have known from the beginning that a boy who was never corrected must be as ignorant and mischievous as an idiot. We will not have him for our king. Send him to school or to an asylum."

And then it was all over.
